What is Missing?

Join us for a night of discussion about this year's Equal Pay Day topic, "What is missing?", and hear our guest speaker, BPW WA President Sandy Cook, on how we have progressed in shortening the list of what has been missing.

Share your thoughts about what is still missing and how we can fill those gaps. Why it matters to you and what might be the ongoing issues if these gaps are not filled. Also, tells us your story of how the progress to filling the "what's missing" has affected you, positively or not.

In 1969 Australian women earned the right to equal pay for equal work. But something is still missing. On average, women in Australian earn less than men. This is called the gender pay gap. Equal Pay Day marks the 56 additional days from the end of the financial year women must work to earn the same average pay.
